Enver Wealth Management

Annual Review System

How the automated yearly review calls will work

Prototype overview · version 2 · 19 October 2026

Built in GoHighLevel with an AI voice agent. All data in the prototype is fake.

SECTION 1

The big picture

One continuous cycle. Staff upload the client list, the system books, reminds, calls, records and sorts. A person checks every result, and next year's review books itself.

Step	What happens
1. Upload	Staff fill in the client spreadsheet and import it into GoHighLevel.
2. Booked	Each client is booked into the review calendar, linked to their email.
3. Confirmed	They get a booking confirmation email, then reminder emails. No texts.
4. Called	On the day, at the booked time, the calendar triggers the AI agent to call.
5. Recorded	The agent asks the questions, confirms the answers, and saves everything.
6. Sorted	The pipeline moves the client to the right stage. Urgent things alert management straight away.
7. Checked	A person reads every result. Nothing is final until it's checked.
8. Outcome	Once checked, the client is emailed to say their review is complete.
9. Rebooked	Next year's review books itself, one year from the call date.

SECTION 2

Client data and the import spreadsheet

The agent has to know exactly who it's calling, so the client details must be right.

- One spreadsheet with a column for every field the system needs. It has instructions, an example row and a Ready? check that flags missing details.
- Staff job: fill it in correctly, then upload it to GoHighLevel. The clients go straight into the client database.
- Email is the key. It links the client to their calendar booking and every email, so everything matches up.
- Names: the agent greets clients by title and surname (e.g. Mrs Holloway), or by a preferred name if one is given.
- Notes for the agent: e.g. hard of hearing or prefers a slower pace. The agent follows them on the call.
- Security: date of birth and postcode, so the agent can check it's the right person.

Columns: Title · First Name · Last Name · Preferred Name · Email · Phone · Date of Birth · Address · Town · Postcode · Client Reference · Adviser Name · Adviser Email · Review Date · Review Time · Last Review Date · Notes for Agent

SECTION 3

Calendars

Two calendars. Both run Monday to Friday, 9am to 5pm, UK time.

Calendar	What it is for
Annual Review Calls	Every client's review slot, plus any follow-up calls. A booking here triggers the AI call on the day. Synced with Outlook.
Review Callback	For clients who'd rather speak to a person. They pick a time from a link we email them.

SECTION 4

Emails

Clients are contacted by email only. They don't get texts from a mobile number.

Email	When it's sent
Booking confirmation	As soon as the review is booked.
Reminders	7 days before and 1 day before the call.
Follow-up link	Straight after the call, if they need more information or time to think.
Callback link	Straight after the call, if they want to speak to a person.
Review complete	Only after a person has checked the review. Never straight after the call.
Results to Enver	After every call, to the adviser and the team inbox.

- Replies are monitored. If a client replies to say they can't make it, the team is told and the call is held.
- Volume: a working figure of around 1,500 emails a day, which covers 100 calls a day.

SECTION 5

The AI agent

A professional, polite voice agent that only asks and records.

It does

- Greets the client by their correct name and checks it's the right person.
- Runs a quick security check, then asks if now is a good time.
- Asks the 10 review questions, one at a time, then reads the answers back once to confirm them.
- Saves every answer, a summary, the outcome and how urgent it is.

It never

- Gives advice, opinions, figures or product information.
- Gives out any information held about the client.
- Promises changes or moves money.
- Strays off the review, or leaves review details on a voicemail.

Clients have signed to agree to AI calls, so the agent doesn't open with an AI or recording disclosure.

SECTION 6

Call scenarios

It isn't just done or bad. Every call ends in one of these.

Situation	What happens
Happy to go ahead	Full review, answers confirmed, polite close.
Needs more information	Carries on with the rest, then emails a link to book a short follow-up call.
Needs time to think	No pressure. Emails a link to book a follow-up call when they're ready.
Busy right now	Prompts towards a rebook. A link is emailed to choose a new time.
Wants a person	Emails a link to book a call with the team.
Doesn't want a review	Accepts it politely. The adviser is told.
Mild concern	Finishes the review if they're happy to, then flags it for the adviser.
Urgent or vulnerable	Slows down, stops the questions, and alerts management straight away.
Someone else answers	Asks for a better time. Says nothing else.
Fails the security check	Ends politely. Management is alerted.
No answer	Short voicemail only. Up to 3 tries, then passed to management.

SECTION 7

Follow-up calls

When a client needs more information or time to think.

- The client books a follow-up time from the emailed link, on the same review calendar.
- On that day, the calendar triggers the agent to call again, just like the first call.
- The agent is up to date before it calls. It reads last call's summary, the answers already given, and what's still to cover.
- It opens with "last time we spoke..." and only asks what's left, so the client never repeats themselves.
- No follow-up booked within 5 working days → a reminder email, then it's passed to the adviser.

SECTION 8

Bad reviews and urgent issues

Two levels, so the right people hear at the right speed.

Level	Examples	What happens
Urgent	Bereavement, illness, distress, hardship, wants to move or take out money, serious complaint, wants to leave, possible scam, failed security, 3 missed calls	Immediate email and alert to management and the adviser. Task to call the client today. Escalates again if not picked up within 2 hours.
Concern	Mildly unhappy, wants a change but no rush, wants advice later, something to go over	Email to the adviser with the summary. Task to respond within 3 working days. Daily round-up to management.

Clients with an urgent issue or a concern don't get an automatic email. The adviser contacts them personally.

SECTION 9

Pipeline: Annual Reviews

Every client sits in one stage. Stages move automatically, except the last one.

Stage	What it means
Review Scheduled	Booked in, waiting for the call.
Calling	The agent is calling now.
No Answer - Retrying	Didn't answer. Another attempt is booked (up to 3).
Follow-up Booked	Needs more information or time to think. A follow-up call is booked.
Callback Booked	Wants a person or another time, or replied to rearrange.
Review Done - Awaiting Check	Completed with no issues. A person needs to check it.
Concern - Adviser to Review	Completed, but something needs the adviser's attention.
Urgent - Management	Needs a person today.
Declined Review	Didn't want a review this year, or wrong number.
Yearly Review Complete	Moved by hand after checking. Sends the client their outcome email and books next year.

SECTION 10

Workflows

Nine workflows run the whole cycle.

0. Import

Starts when: staff upload the spreadsheet.

- Adds each client to the pipeline.
- Books their review slot on the calendar.

A. Review call

Starts when: the review or follow-up time arrives on the calendar.

- Checks it's a weekday, 9am to 5pm.
- Moves the client to Calling.
- Tells the agent to call.

B. Call result

Starts when: the call ends.

- Saves the date, answers, summary and anything still to cover.
- Moves the client to the right stage.
- Emails the right link to the client, and the results to Enver.
- Books another try if there was no answer.

C. Yearly rebook

Starts when: a person moves the client to Yearly Review Complete.

- Books next year exactly one year from the call date, at the same time.
- Moves it to the next working day if it lands on a weekend or bank holiday.
- Clears this year's answers.

D. Confirmations and reminders

Starts when: a review or follow-up is booked.

- Sends the confirmation email.
- Sends reminders before the call.

E. Email replies

Starts when: a client replies to any email.

- Alerts the team.
- Holds the call if they can't make it.

F. Client outcome email

Starts when: a person moves the client to Yearly Review Complete.

- Emails the client to say their review is complete, with roughly when the next one is due.

G. Urgent alert

Starts when: the agent marks a call as urgent.

- Alerts management and the adviser immediately.
- Creates a task to call the client today.
- Escalates if it's not picked up.

H. Concern

Starts when: the agent marks a concern.

- Emails the adviser.
- Creates a task to respond within 3 days.
- Adds it to the daily round-up.

SECTION 11

Human check and the yearly rebook

- The system is fully automatic, but every result is checked by a person.
- Only a team member can move a client to Yearly Review Complete.
- That one move sends the client their outcome email and books next year's review.
- The next review is always one year from the call date, not from when the client was moved.

SECTION 12

Options for later

- Live transfer: if a client wants to speak to someone there and then, during working hours, and someone is free, the agent could put them straight through. Otherwise they get the booking link.
- Signatures: the review is verbal for now. If anything needs signing, GoHighLevel's Documents & Contracts could send it for e-signature by email, and a signed document could move the pipeline. To confirm once Enver says what needs signing.
- Real data and questions: Enver's client list and their own review questions.
- Scale: designed for 100+ calls a day, with several running at once.

SECTION 13

Prototype status

Item	Status
Agent script (v2) and 10 test questions	Written
Client import spreadsheet	Ready
Pipeline, fields, calendars, 9 workflows	Designed, ready to build
Fake test clients	Ready
GoHighLevel sub-account	Waiting to be created
Real questions, client data, email domain	Needed from Enver later
